'War Criminals' Must Pay Penalty, Revolt Victor Says

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro contends the executions springing from his civil war victory are necessary to purify Cuba after six years of dictatorial rule.

The future course of the revolutionary purge was a subject of conflicting statements, but Castro made clear in a speech Tuesday night he considers the shooting of "war criminals" justified. Amid mounting criticism abroad, rebel firing squads have executed more than 150 persons on charges of murder, torture and other crimes during the regime of President Fulgencio Batista, who fled two weeks ago. It is estimated 3,000 others face summary court trials, many of which have been held in secret.

Addresses Lions Club

Castro, now chief of the Cuban armed forces, took note of an adverse reaction within the United States in his speech to the Havana Lions Club.

"Why didn't the Americans attack when the Batista government was executing people en masse?" he asked.

Those who have killed now were executed to demonstrate that they could not get away with murder and crimes against the people, Castro said.

A similar defense had been offered in a press statement by the provisional government's foreign minister, Roberto Agramonte. Agramonte declared that if the new regime did not mete out swift justice, the people would take the law into their own hands to avenge the torture and murder of an estimated 20,000 Cubans by Batista police and troops.

A presidential palace spokesman was quoted Tuesday night by a government press source as saying the government had ordered the suspension of all executions. The order was reported to have followed a conference between Castro and the man he installed as provisional president, Manuel Urrutia.

A presidential secretary today denied the executions had been suspended. He also denied Castro and Urrutia had met Tuesday. The secretary told reporters assigned to the presidential palace the executions in fact were continuing in accordance with due process of law.

But no specific instances of new activity by the firing squads were reported immediately.

Graham Taking Tests At Clinic For Eye Trouble

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham was undergoing further tests today as Mayo Clinic specialists studied the serious eye ailment that brought an abrupt halt to the churchman's Southern tour.

The survey included a general physical examination to determine possible cause of a ruptured blood vessel behind the retina, which has cut Graham's vision 50 per cent in the left eye. He said it causes no pain.

An early diagnosis by the evangelist's doctor father-in-law, Dr. Nelson Bell, Montreal, N. C., called the malady both rare and serious.

New York's Spring Fashion Display Is Lacking In Sacks

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—There's no sack in a carload of New York spring fashions, currently being previewed by the nation's fashion press.

Today's champions of the female form include designers Jo Copeland, Oleg Cassini and Ben Zuckerman. The only holdout of the season to date is Larry Aronson, who has been beating the drums for the "relaxed" silhouette for high on to five years and still shows it, modified but recognizable.

IH Company, Auto Worker Union Settle

CHICAGO (AP)—International Harvester Co. and the United Auto Workers union early today reached an agreement on a new three-year contract for 37,000 employees who have been on strike for two months.

Spokesmen for the company and union announced the agreement after a lengthy session that extended into the early morning hours.

The agreement, if ratified by UAW local Harvester councils at a meeting Friday, would end the strike, which has forced the shutdown of 15 Harvester plants, 7 parts depots and 3 transfer points. Ratification by the workers would result in resumption of operations by Monday, a company spokesman said.

The principal gains in the new contract, the spokesmen said, were an annual pay increase of 6 cents an hour or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater, and the length of the new pact—three years.

Ike Appears On TV Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower appeared on live television and radio coast-to-coast today to answer reporters' questions. But don't look for more such broadcasts.

At least, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty says the President has no plans to permit live TV and radio coverage of his regular news conferences. The scheduled session with newsmen today is outside the usual pattern. The President arranged to go to a National Press Club luncheon, make a brief informal talk, and then answer written questions submitted by reporters. Use of written questions is the Press Club practice.

Cold Weather Due For Area

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five-day forecast: Mild, with occasional rain, Thursday and turning colder late Thursday or Thursday night with rain, changing to snow flurries in the mountains. Cold through remainder of the period with recurring snow flurries in extreme Western Maryland. Temperatures will average 6 to 10 degrees below normal, and precipitation will average one-fourth of an inch or less. Normal highs are 38 to 44. Lows vary from 18-24 in Western Maryland to 24-30 elsewhere.

Legal Action Seen If City Schools Shut

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A City Council resolution that could close all secondary schools here if Virginia's anti-integration laws are ruled unconstitutional appears headed for a court challenge.

The resolution, passed Tuesday by a 6-1 vote, said the council "does not propose, at this time, to authorize" funds for public schooling above the sixth grade after Jan. 31.

Immediate protest came from Edmund D. Campbell, an Arlington lawyer. "Norfolk cannot be permitted to stop education at the sixth grade," Campbell said. "Some legal remedy will be found."

Mayor W. Fred Duckworth said the resolution means the secondary schools "will not open unless there is some radical change in the present situation." He declined to say what a radical change might be.

State and federal court rulings are expected next Monday on the constitutionality of the state's massive resistance program.

Pair Accused In Fatal Fire At Apartment

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—A fireman perished and an apartment building was damaged early today in a fire which officials said apparently resulted from an argument between the building's handyman and a woman customer.

Detectives arrested Ernest Goler, 41, and Miss Ann Owens, 49. Officers said Goler and Miss Owens—Negroes who lived in the basement of the building—accused each other of starting the blaze. Both were charged with suspicion of felony.

Detectives said stories given by Goler and Miss Owens indicated they quarreled while drinking in their basement quarters.

Goler was quoted as saying Miss Owens threw lighted matches into a storage bin. Miss Owens told detectives Goler had been tossing matches around the basement.

Both said they attempted to fight the blaze before flames drove them out.

The fire spread swiftly through the three-story brick structure near the University of Pittsburgh campus in the Oakland section about three miles from downtown.

Occupants of the 12 apartments fled, many in nightclothing, into near-freezing temperatures. Fire Chief Stephen Adley estimated damage at $40,000.

Sprouting Seeds Make Rug Grow In Living Room

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Mrs. Ronald Dean thought she had trouble a few weeks ago when during a cold spell, her washing machine froze up and flooded her living room.

Tuesday a neighbor asked Mrs. Dean if her living room rug was growing.

"I wondered if she'd lost her mind," Mrs. Dean said. Her neighbor hadn't though. On the green carpet where the birdcage had stood, tiny bird seeds were sprouting.

U.S. Change In Unifying Reich Seen

Policy Could Be Modified If West Allies Can Agree

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may be willing to modify its policy on German reunification if it can get West Germany and other Allies to agree on some revised formula.

The whole German situation is under intensive review in the State Department in preparation for new exchanges on the subject with the Soviet government.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles expect to discuss Germany, including Berlin and the reunification problem, in talks with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan Friday and Saturday.

Dulles Gives Tipoff

Dulles gave the tipoff on possible modification of the U. S. stand at a news conference Tuesday. He said reunification of East and West Germany through free elections—the formula the Allies have backed for years—is not the only method by which East and West Germany could be merged. But he declined under questioning to specify what other methods were possible.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has always opposed any alteration of this formula.

The Soviet government—in spite of an apparent agreement to such elections at Geneva in 1955—has insisted on a merger worked out directly between the East and West German regimes.

The end result of current State Department discussions, subject to consultation with the European Allies, could be some innovations in United States and Western policy, or a new decision to stand firm on present policies.

Must Answer Red Bid

Apart from the discussions with Mikoyan, the United States and other Western nations face the necessity of replying soon to the Soviet proposal for a peace conference on Germany to meet in March.

This proposal and a Soviet suggested treaty draft are sure to be rejected by the Allies. However, Dulles obviously wants to come up with some counter proposal that will bring East and West closer to a conference.

Frosty Chill Hits Florida

By The Associated Press

A mid-January spell of fairly mild weather continued in most of the central part of the country today but it was a little chilly in the Northern and some Western sections.

Snow flurries fell in the cold air in northern New England and parts of Pennsylvania and in a belt from South Dakota through eastern Wyoming and northwest Colorado.

Colder air also spread into the northern Rockies and most of the Great Basin region.

Some of the frosty air that invaded the Eastern region dipped southward as far as northern Florida.

Democrats Hit GOP For Tax Slash Talk

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats assailed the administration budget-balancing pledges and tax-cutting talk today as part of a fiscal juggling act they said is aimed at fooling the people.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Senate Democratic leader, challenged statements of Republican congressional leaders that the new budget will show a 100-million-dollar surplus and that tax cuts may be possible in two or three years. He said such claims won't hold water.

Mansfield and other Democrats contend President Eisenhower plans to balance a 77-billion-dollar budget by estimating revenues at a far higher level than they are likely to reach.

Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif.) said in a separate interview Congress will take a good look at what he said promises to be a "pipe dream" budget, to be submitted by Eisenhower next Monday.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he is certain Congress is going to vote all of the funds it believes are needed for defense whether it balances the budget or not.

However, Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, said the Democrats were jumping to conclusions without having the facts.

"Anybody who denounces the President's budget in advance of studying it in detail simply convicts himself of political demagoguery," Kuchel said. "If the budget isn't balanced it will be because the Democratic Congress doesn't vote to keep it in balance."

Sen. Charles McNair (D-Ind.) said he is certain Congress is going to vote all of the funds it believes are needed for defense whether it balances the budget or not.

Solons Told Red Growth Poses Peril

Austerity Period May Be Extensive To Meet Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today austerity and sacrifice, perhaps for generations ahead, will be required to counter the economic-military growth of communism.

"We may face a period even harder than we have become used to," he said.

The secretary, in a statement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declared: "The price of failure would be the destruction of all our national objectives. We must press on with courage to build surer foundations for the interdependent world community of which we are a part."

Cites Basic Purposes

"This will call for austerity and sacrifice on the part of all."

Dulles told the committee U.S. foreign policy has three basic purposes: To block aggressive force, to promote human dignity and freedom, and to stimulate economic growth and interdependence.

"These goals are not attainable in a few years, but will require decades and perhaps even generations."

Dulles said the primary threat is the rapid economic and industrial growth of Red China and the Soviet bloc through forced labor.

The United States must stand firm in the face of Communist threats and probers, he said, and make "whatever unusual sacrifices may be necessary."

Dulles was the first of a group of diplomatic and military officials that the senators plan to hear in a series of sessions devoted to study of free world problems in 1959.

The Senate group is holding its hearings behind closed doors, but the State Department released copies of a prepared statement Dulles took to the meeting.

Dulles said that in the long run Communist rulers will encounter increasing difficulties from peoples balking against dictatorial rule.

"But for the short run—and this may be a period of years—the situation is full of danger," he said. In seeking world order, the secretary said, "the United States must try to eliminate the use of force, or threat of its use, by all nations in their dealings with others."

Mother Admits Three Children Beaten, Slashed

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP)—An Englewood housewife told officers from a hospital bed Tuesday that she struck her three children with an iron bar, then slashed their throats with a razor before turning the blade on herself.

Mrs. Opal Wax, 28, and the children were taken to hospitals where doctors said all will recover. The oldest youngster, Marjorie, 9, suffered a fractured skull when struck by a 24-pound trailer hitch.

Police Sgt. Glenn Benson said Mrs. Wax told him she was despondent because her husband lost a leg in an accident two years ago and has been unemployed for long periods since then.

Cuban Executions Stir Protests

Congressional Criticism Follows 'Blood Bath'

WASHINGTON (AP)—New congressional criticism was raised today against the wave of executions by Cuba's new revolutionary government.

The new regime, apparently taken aback by the storm of criticism provoked in the United States and elsewhere by the firing squad shootings, announced Tuesday night the executions were being suspended.

No date for their resumption was given. But a government spokesman said that when they are, newsmen as well as the general public will have the opportunity to watch the proceedings from military trial to execution.

One House member said that if the executions continue without formal trials the regime of rebel chief Fidel Castro stands "forfeited the respect of the whole hemisphere."

The number of those executed was estimated unofficially at 150. "It is regrettable that Castro is continuing these gentlemen without real trials," said Sen. Homer

Capehart (R-Ind.).

Capehart, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and its Latin American Affairs subcommittee, told a reporter:

"These (executions) appear to be the actions of a dictator or someone demanding revenge. It is a poor way to try to win support and confidence of the public."

Another member of the same subcommittee, Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.), said if the new regime have wholesale shootings without can lose a great deal of public support."

Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.), a specialist in Latin American affairs, said that considering the number of people involved in the revolution he doesn't regard the executions as a "blood bath."

He said the law was unyielding. Chionchio was persuaded to sign the complaint.

Commuter Aid Studied

CHICAGO (AP)—Here's a hope. Most of the railroads contend they can't make a profit in operating the commuter lines.

Many people in high places are thinking of ways to help you.

It's a bad situation and the prospect is even worse. Motor vehicle traffic is approaching the saturation point in the scores of cities. And the main trend in the nation's growing population is toward the huge urban centers.

So 29 men—16 railroad presidents and 13 mayors and other city officials—got together Tuesday to exchange ideas on how to solve the commuter problem.

Here are some of the suggestions:

- Government subsidies.
- New equipment to lure motorists back to the rails.
- A federal agency to buy equipment and lease it to the rail lines.
- Provision for deducting money to lend them money to buy modern rolling stock.
- Elimination of the federal tax on commuter tickets.
- Provision for deducting money to exchange ideas on how to solve the commuter problem.

Dictator In Paraguay Seen Facing Revolt

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An Argentine newspaper says another Latin-American dictator faces rebellion.

He is President Alfredo Stroessner of neighboring Paraguay. The newspaper Nacion said Tuesday that informed sources in Asuncion, Paraguay's capital, reported defiance of the dictator in the Chaco of northwest Paraguay.

names of the accused and the charges against them would be made available to newsmen. Reporters also were invited to cover the trials.

Trials already had been suspended in Santiago, capital of Oriente province, where Castro's movement and Batista's repression were centered.

More than half the reported executions have occurred in Oriente, including the shooting of 71 persons in two batches early Monday, which the spokesman confirmed.

Reports of the executions aroused strong protests in the United States. One especially noted in Havana was made by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) in the Senate Monday. He called the executions blood baths that were not the way for the new regime to win free world support.

The average Cuban appeared to approve the killings, however, and revolutionary leaders at first defended their course.

Racket Probe Near End By Jury In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A federal grand jury investigating rackets in Western Pennsylvania was expected to complete a Westmoreland County phase today.

The activities of the Mannarino brothers, alleged racket bosses in Westmoreland County, took up the jurors' attention Tuesday. They were trying to determine whether the Mannarinos were linked to a plot to deliver stolen rifles to Cuban rebels.

Gabriel (Kelly) Mannarino is believed to be either in Cuba or Mexico while his brother, Sam, reputed mastermind of Westmoreland County rackets, has been missing since last fall when he left his New Kensington home to go hunting in McKean County.

Sam's wife, Mrs. Rose Mannarino, was subpoenaed last Thursday to appear before the grand jury but has been a patient in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington.

Dr. Louis C. Pessalano, a former New Kensington physician now living in Miami, Fla., was questioned Tuesday by the grand jury because he allegedly had "lined up" Stuart Sutor as a pilot. Sutor was arrested in Morgantown, W. Va., last November in a plane loaded with guns said to be destined for Cuba.

Pessalano said he had been called by the Civil Aeronautics Administration occasionally to examine pilots. He said he thought the examination of Sutor was a routine check-up.

Surgeon Says Noses Reveal Racial Origin

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—It's amazing what Ralph Riggs knows about noses.

"The nose of a Negro," says specialist Riggs, "is designed as an air cooler. The Caucasian's nose is an air heater."

Dr. Riggs, of Louisiana State University, got onto the subject while addressing a seminar on nose surgery Tuesday at the College of Medical Evangelists.

"You can pretty generally figure," he said, "the wider the nose the warmer the climate."

Another thing about noses. They are part of the mechanism the body uses to make you turn over at night.

"In 70 per cent of the cases," said Dr. Riggs, "I can tell what side a person sleeps on by examining his nose. Really."

"A person is directed by his nose to turn over every hour or so. One side of the nose takes it easy while the other side takes over the task of doing most of the breathing. If you sleep on one side more than the other it will show up in your nose."

Good Samaritan Fixes Flat And Then Gets Shot

WARREN, Pa. (AP)—Richard J. Fairchild, 22, of Curry, told police he was driving to Warren Tuesday when he encountered two women motorists with a flat tire. Fairchild said he stopped and helped change the tire. After he was finished, he said one of the women said: "Here's your reward," and shot him with a rifle she took from her car.

Fairchild is in fair condition in Warren General Hospital with a wound of the left shoulder as police investigate his story.

Carbonneau Gets Nine Year Sentence

LA PLATA, Md. (AP) — Albert and a white coat with a fur collar, G. Carbonneau, 33, has been given a nine-year sentence for the shooting of a State Police lieutenant.

Tears came to Carbonneau's eyes as he was led away after the sentencing.

The jury deliberated for 5½ hours before returning a manslaughter verdict early last Saturday. The State had asked a first-degree murder finding in the death of a friend.

The attractive honey blonde was dressed in a flaming orange dress.

posed the sentence, said he did not order the maximum to years because the television repairman had no criminal record. However, he said "the fact remains your unlawful act has caused the death of a fine useful citizen engaged in protecting the public."

Brown was shot July 6 at Smith's Steakhouse in the small Charles County community of Bryans Road. Police had received a tip the place was to be burglarized.

Carbonneau and two others are still under indictment on other counts in connection with the case.

January 30 Deadline Set For Licenses

BALTIMORE (AP)—Motor Vehicles Commissioner James B. Monroe is imposing a Jan. 30 deadline for re-registration of Maryland motorists whose last names began with A, B and C.

"After that time," Monroe announced, "our records will be destroyed and the applicant will be required to pay the full fee of $3.50 for a new license."

"If he can produce his old license, he will only be required to take the eye test and examination on the motor vehicle law. If the license cannot be produced the full examination, including road test, must be taken."

Monroe noted a legal exception for persons in military service or absent from the state for other valid cause.

The motor vehicles commissioner also announced yesterday that at least 26,500 Marylanders are driving with expired licenses.

Some 18,200 of them—the motorists with A, B and C initials—have been doing so since last June 30, the deadline for their re-registration under the law passed by the 1957 General Assembly.

The others are motorists whose last name's begin with D, E, F or G. Their deadline was Dec. 30.

County United Fund Group Plans Meeting

The nominating committee of the County United Fund will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the CUF offices to prepare a slate of nominees for the annual election.

Robert G. Garner is chairman of the committee, which has been asked to select candidates for a three-year term on the CUF board of directors, three-year terms on the executive committee, and officers for 1959.

The election will be held next month during the annual meeting of the County United Fund.

Ministers Discuss Gaming Law Change

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—Pro-liberal laws on gambling and liquor may be introduced in the County have held a recent series of meetings to discuss local gambling and liquor laws.

A spokesman said they were called to formulate strategy after "trial balloons" for relaxing the present laws went up in certain quarters.

The spokesman added that more trial balloons which provoked the sessions were:

- Legalization of the sale of beer, wine and hard liquor in Ocean City on Sundays.
- Permit slot machines in private clubs.

Allow bigtime bingo and similar games to return to the boardwalk.

Equity Suits Filed

Bills of complaint in two equity suits were filed yesterday in Circuit Court. They were filed by Shirley M. Dolly against Melvin Lester Dolly and Charlotte Leasure against Frank R. Leasure.

WCS Program Given At Church

The Women Society of Christian Service of the Fairview Avenue Methodist Church met a recent evening in the church social hall. Mrs. Bertha Rice was in charge of the devotionals.

The title of the program was "Rekindling the Gift Revitalized Old Religions." Mrs. J. F. Zimmerman spoke on "Islam"; Mrs. Elwood Stewart on "Hinduism"; Mrs. Richard Welker on "Buddhism"; and Mrs. Rice on "Rekindling the Gift." The group closed with prayer. Mrs. John Groves presided at the business session. It was voted to send a cash gift to the missionary, Kathryn Eye for her birthday.

Mrs. Groves thanked all those that furnished refreshments for the New Years Eve service and all those that came out for the service. It was voted to send a cash donation to the Sibley Memorial Hospital.

A rummage sale is planned for January 24, in the church basement with Mrs. Charles Miller and Mrs. Charles Caldwell in charge. Anyone having rummage may contact one of the ladies in charge. Mrs. Caldwell made a motion to purchase some books for the M.Y.F. The Society will visit the County Home, February 14, to distribute valentines and candy to the patients there.

Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. Justina Clayton were the hostesses for the evening. Others present were Mrs. Charles Bauer, Mrs. Russell Ash, Mrs. Robert Webster, and Mrs. Jesse Baker.

W. Va. Legislature Faces Numerous Serious Issues

Cases Heard In Hampshire Circuit Court

ROMNEY — Five men were placed on probation Monday in Hampshire County Circuit Court after pleading guilty to various crimes ranging from contributing to the delinquency of minors to arson.

Judge H. Gus Muntzing handed out probationary periods after hearing pleas from each of the five men. He later heard pleas of guilty from 12 juvenile boys who went on a crime spree last year. The juvenile cases were continued yesterday.

Jack Warman, 19, of Mason City, Pa., and James R. Dennison, 21, of Springfield, were granted three years probation by Judge Muntzing after pleading guilty to arson in the burning of a barn belonging to Jesse Shanholzer of near Springfield.

Both men admitted being AWOL from the Army at the time, and said they had committed several breakings and enterings in Pennsylvania before accidentally setting fire to the barn while attempting to attract attention of the residents of the house, which they hoped to burglarize.

Judge Muntzing then heard testimony on the two men's pleas for probation before suspending imposition of sentence in the case and placing both men on probation.

In another case, James Shanholzer, 21, of Romney, pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor boy for whom he purchased beer at a tavern. Judge Muntzing placed the defendant on probation for one year.

Irvin J. Kerns and Randolph M. Shoemaker, 28, both of near Whitacre, Va., pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of two minor boys, 10 and 14, by allowing the juveniles to accompany them while spotlighting deer at night.

Both asked for probation and Judge Muntzing placed each on probation for one year.

Twelve youthful offenders, ranging in ages from 14 to 17, then pleaded guilty to a series of crimes, including breaking and entering, petty larceny, theft of dynamite and other offenses.

The youths admitted the crimes which authorities said went from one offense by one boy to as many as 20 crimes by another.

After hearing testimony all day in the juvenile cases Judge Muntzing continued the hearings until the second day of the March term of court, placing each of the youths on strict probation until that time. The probation included the imposition of a curfew, authorities said.

Meanwhile, Luther D. Wolfe, 20, of Romney, indicted by the grand jury for attempted rape of a young woman, posted $1,000 bond pending his trial which may not be held until the next term of court.

Today's court action was devoted to the hearing of civil cases, court officials stated.

Reporter Gets $500

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Brooks Wells, Huntington Advertiser reporter, has been given $500 by the Press Club of Charleston. During a 24-hour period last week, Wells learned that he has cancer, was seriously injured in an automobile accident and lost his uninsured home in a fire.

Driver Fined, One Freed In Fatal Mishap

LONACONING—A Midland motorist last night was found guilty of failing to yield the right of way in connection with a two-car collision December 22 at Knapp's Meadow near here which claimed the expected life of 16-year-old Donna Sloan, honor student at Valley High School.

During the trial in Town Hall before Jack Mullen, substitute trial magistrate, Richard Hawkins was fined $25 and costs. He entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney, Stephen Pagenhardt of Oakland.

Magistrate Mullen found Harry J. Warnick, 20, of Lonaconing, not guilty of speed greater than reasonable and proper. Miss Sloan was riding in the auto driven north on State Route 35 by Warnick. Gorman Gelly represented Warnick, who entered a plea of not guilty.

The trial lasted about three hours and Town Hall was filled to capacity by residents of Lonaconing and area. The state's case was presented by James S. Getty, state's attorney. He said about ten witnesses testified.

The girl who was a cheerleader at Valley High School, died shortly after being admitted to Miners Hospital.

After the accident occurred an extensive investigation was conducted by Maryland State Police and the state's attorney's office. The probe was handled by Trooper Bruce Diehl on behalf of State Police.

Early reports indicated that only one car was involved. Getty said. However, the probe by Trooper Diehl showed the Hawkins vehicle "triggered" the fatal accident.

The auto operated by Warnick was traveling north on the highway when the Hawkins car backed out onto the highway from an ungraded side road, according to Getty.

Warnick swerved to the right side of the highway to avoid the Hawkins vehicle, struck a fence and porch of a dwelling and then struck the right rear of the Hawkins car and overturned, Getty said.

Students Aid State Survey

KEYSER—Two Potomac State College sophomores, Pamela Pamer of Charleston, who is a speech major, and Joseph Willhide of Keyser, engineering major, were among college students of the state appointed to assist the Princeton, (N. J.) Research Service in making a public opinion study in West Virginia in mid-November.

The interviews were asked to contact a cross section of the public in the City of Keyser on a busy Saturday afternoon.

According to the latest issue of the WVEA News, a publication of the West Virginia Education Association, a summary of the Princeton survey seems to indicate that the public of the state wants better schools.

New, Stiffer Graduation Requirements Discussed

ROMNEY — New and stiffer entry requirements which would much rather be fired for are in prospect for West Virginia doing his job than for not doing high schools were discussed at a meeting Monday night by A. apathy on the part of the parents Clifton Loy, superintendent of the county toward their schools in Hampshire County, and the welfare of their children.

Loy stated that it was not just a simple task of adding new work to the program, but that numerous other changes and improvements were necessary before this could be done. He pointed out the need for courses and instruction of the type that would best take care of students in the lower intelligence groups and also those in the group with IQs of 110 or more who are college material.

Loy stated that Hampshire County is the only county in the area with out a special tax levy for such which was paying excess salaries. He predicted that the county would revert to the state basic schedule next year which would make it even more difficult to get teachers than at present.

He also stated that space was a serious problem at the library. He had been partitioned to make an extra classroom this year and two more rooms would be needed next year with nothing in sight.

The superintendent also reported that nearly $38,000 had come out of the budget in the past two years because of reduced state aid and social security requirements with nothing coming in to replace it, and that the further proposed reduction of more than $19,000 would necessitate a shortened school term.

Loy gave statistics comparing Hampshire with neighboring counties and pointed out that the county is much worse off than neighboring counties financially, but that Harry was making an effort to do something about their loss by bringing suit in the State Supreme Court.

Loy stated further that a recent inspection by the state fire marshal would reveal more alarming needs for the county, and that in trying to deal with the problems in the past he had been given little support. In fact, the superintendent said, he had been threatened to be fired for his efforts. He stated that he was not particularly happy.

Mrs. Florence Liller, principal, announced her room won the prize for having the most parents present. Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

might be construed as criticism of his predecessor, Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

To Inform Public

"I think it is regrettable that in the past State planning too often has been no more than a pious hope, an expression of good intentions, ignored in practice after being paid dutiful lip service," he said.

His other precepts will be "keep the public informed, open-mindedness and confidence and faith."

Tawes said his intention to inform the public in advance on what his administration is considering will be aimed at doing "everything possible to remove any area of doubt or misunderstanding that may exist as to the effect of a proposed policy or program."

"This administration and the people of Maryland will be called upon to make many difficult choices during the next four years. There is no magic formula to give us the things we want without cost or obligation."

He recalled "that within the last year our state approached a revenue crisis—a crisis in which we observed the demands for services overtake our ability to pay for them with established revenues."

To Avoid Increases

The 1958 Legislature had to hike both the sales and income taxes from 2 to 3 per cent to balance the budget. Tawes has expressed confidence any increase or new taxes can be avoided in his first year.

As for "open-mindedness," Tawes said that would mean he "will not hesitate to change or to do things differently from the way they were done last year or the year before."

"Traditional approaches to such things as education, public welfare, prison management and many other State activities are being re-examined."

Tawes made one direct reference to the political atmosphere of his administration.

Task Not Easy

"The task of the Legislature is not made any easier because of the overwhelming dominance of one political party," he said.

"On the contrary the Legislature must exercise unusual diligence to see that all shades of opinion are obtained and all points of view explored."

The Republicans were reduced to seven delegates out of 123 and three senators out of 29 in the Legislature in last year's Democratic landslide in Maryland.

Tawes swore in today his successor as comptroller, Louis L. Goldstein. Thomas B. Finan as secretary of state, and Hooper S. Miles as treasurer, all Democrats. Goldstein was elected in November along with Tawes, Finan was appointed by him and Miles was chosen yesterday by the Legislature.

Demo Committee Approves More Farm, Timber Work

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Proposals for stepping up West Virginia farming and timbering activity as one means of aiding the unemployed were approved Tuesday by the Democratic steering committee of the Legislature.

The group accepted Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson's requests for $10,000 for a timber marketing service and $24,000 for expanding an existing food marketing service.

The committee also recommended a survey of timber tracts owned by the state to determine whether the trees be cut and sold. Bean said proceeds would be used in reforestation and development of recreation facilities to provide employment and attract tourists.

The group also adopted a resolution seeking approval by the federal government of a request by Johnson that West Virginia's tobacco acreage allocation be increased by 240 acres.

Johnson said expanded marketing facilities would provide an outlet for products which could be grown by unemployed workers in many areas of the state.

Johnson said the $24,000 would be used for employing four full-time receiving state market managers for the Marion, Mingo, Preston, and Randolph County areas.

He said the expanded tobacco

Recovery Plan Backed By Governor

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood called today for creation of a State Economic Recovery Agency to "chart a path to stable employment and a prosperous economy" for West Virginia.

It was Underwood's long-range answer—proposed in his "State of the State" message at the opening of the 54th Legislature—to the state's economic crisis.

For the immediate future, Underwood recommended that the lawmakers approve an expanded road program costing an additional $37,000,000 a year and a new $15,000,000 incentive program for public schools, plus providing more funds for mental hospitals, State Police, armories and the search for new industry.

Unlike the 1958 session, when he proposed specific taxes to finance similar programs, Underwood offered no concrete tax proposals, while saying he believed it wise "to stay within existing (tax) structures when possible."

He denied, however, that West Virginia — even in a weakened economic condition — cannot afford the sums of money needed for the improvements he outlined.

Can Afford Taxes

"Times were difficult in 1893; yet another Legislature and another governor had the courage and foresight to launch a major tax adventure to support the public welfare. I do not believe we can afford to do less," he declared.

He referred to Gov. H.C. Kump and the 1933 Legislature which overhauled the state's tax structure, previously based largely on property taxes, and passed the consumers and gross sales taxes.

Patomac State Teams Collect $1,199 For CUF

KEYSER—Teams collected a total of $1,199 on the Patomac State College campus during the recent County United Fund drive. The sum raised in the Keyser area was $1,900.

The administration, faculty and maintenance staff of the college took an active part in the twenty-second annual drive here.

Team captains on the campus were J. Kenna Burk, John D. Fox, James T. Handlan, John Baschella and Misses Virginia E. Johnson, Mary F. Shipper and Anne E. Withers.

David G. Nuzum was coordinator of the program headed by Dr. E. E. Church.

Books Donated

Two books have been added to the library shelves in recent weeks, according to Miss Mary Shipper, college librarian.

Life magazine's "The World's Great Religions" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Moore of Cumberland in memory of Mrs. James Henry Shipper, mother of the librarian.

"Deadline Every Minute," the story of the United Press by Joe Alex Morris, was given to the library by members of the Faculty Club in memory of John W. Handlan, brother of Prof. James T. Handlan.

Both editions bear on the inside cover a bookplate designating that they are memorial gifts to the library.

Teacher To Assume Mineral Area Post

KEYSER — Mrs. Frances Goldsworthy, wife of Abram Goldsworthy, will take over the classes of J. W. Kessel in Keyser High School when Kessel leaves Monday to attend the 1959 session of the West Virginia Legislature. Acting Principal James W. Goldsworthy said.

Kessel represents Mineral County in the House of Delegates, and is starting out on his second two-year term. He teaches world history and English at the high school. The legislative session lasts 60 days.

OUR COUNTRY
The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever—Morris.

Worth Considering

SINCE PRESIDENT Eisenhower's message to Congress dealt, by design, with the state of the world rather than just the national condition, his comments on defense and foreign policy merit prime consideration. He seemed to recognize that we could not content ourselves nor satisfy our friends abroad with mere negative responses to Communist proposals. He wanted it known again that we will stand firm against Red encroachments in trouble spots like Berlin, but that we very much favor finding a basis for lasting settlement of critical world issues. What he put new stress upon is that any such pacts must be, in effect, "self-enforcing," that is, they must be so put together that Russia cannot add them to its long list of broken international contracts.

WHAT THIS appears to propose is that we would not, as in the past, insist upon prior proof of Soviet good intentions but would instead be ready to enter into negotiations—provided they lead to ironclad pacts Russia cannot subvert. As for defense, Mr. Eisenhower laid greatest weight on his conviction that we are in a long continuing struggle, not one that has deadline dates of "maximum peril." This means we must inevitably maintain a high level of armaments, but must "guard against feverish building" of our defenses to meet "glibly predicted moments" of extreme danger. Obviously this is an answer to those who contend with every Russian advance in the space-missile field that we must spend vast additional sums to catch up with the Soviet Union. The President would pin our hopes for superiority on better planning, organization, and skillful application of scientific knowledge. In the domestic, as in the foreign field, the President in his 1959 "look ahead" was determined to give his proposals a positive rather than simply a negative cast. Thus, while he put his expected emphasis on the fight for a balanced budget and against excessive spending and the inflation which follows, he painted the future of a steadily expanding America in broad, bright strokes.

TO UNDERSCORE his concern for that future, Mr. Eisenhower promised to name a committee of leaders in education, business, labor and the professions to help chart long-term national goals for the next five and ten years. His intimates are suggesting this effort will transcend all others in the final two years of his presidency—except the continuing quest for a durable peace. Democrats who criticize the President for negativism and lack of leadership are not impressed. They fear his "goals" group will be "just another committee." And they say his efforts to balance the budget and check inflation could be at the expense of both defense and essential domestic programs. It should be plain, then, that what Mr. Eisenhower has laid before the American people is not simply his blueprint for them but a battle plan for the tests between his administration and Congress in the next two big years.

No Major Change

ABOUT THE ONLY certain conclusion to be drawn from the overthrow of Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., after 20 years of Republican leadership in the House is that Joe Martin's power has been broken. To go beyond that, to conclude that this shift in power marks the beginning of notable change in the GOP approach, is unwarranted. Many Republicans in the House, conservatives as well as liberals, had been chafing under Martin's leadership. There had been a widespread feeling that he had acted neither as vigorously nor as progressively as the circumstances demanded. There is little doubt that Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the new GOP leader, will be more aggressive than Martin has been in recent years. He also seems likely to push for a more liberal program than his predecessor fancied—a program more in line with the views of the so-called Eisenhower Republicans. But the extent of change in this direction cannot be predicted with any certainty. The fact that Martin also was ousted from the chairmanship of the House Republican policy committee is the best indication of a strong desire for a complete change in leadership. How the Republicans will respond to this new leadership remains to be seen, but no sweeping shift of emphasis seems likely.

GOP Liberals Fear Goldwater As Peril

WASHINGTON — Congressional liberals are scheduled to bite the dust again with the selection of Senator Barry Goldwater as Chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

Senator Goldwater, a staunch conservative, is the principal symbol and spokesman today of opposition to so-called "big labor" and its participation in politics. He made it pay off in Arizona, where, against the tide, he defeated a Democratic moderate.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts is spokesman for those Republicans, many of them candidates for re-election in 1960, who feel that a Goldwater brand on the 1960 campaign would imperil their future. Again, however, it appears that they do not have the votes to prevail.

SHORTLY after his triumph, Senator Goldwater was asked by Senator Styles Bridges, chairman of GOP policy, and the new GOP Senate leader, Everett Dirksen, to take the campaign post. Of his own motion, Senator Goldwater cleared it with the White House and Vice President Nixon. He claims support from some of the GOP liberals who staged an unsuccessful last-ditch fight against the choice of Senator Dirksen as leader. He says too he had no idea there was any opposition to his selection until the wire services told him Senator Saltonstall, chairman of the Republican conference which names committees, did not want his name considered.

SETTING his strong jaw, Senator Goldwater now says he will go through with it. He is prepared to promise that his whole purpose will be to elect Republicans of any stripe who are nominated by the party organization. He did this, he says, when he held the post once before and "we got along all right."

He brings valuable assets to the job. He is young, vigorous and dedicated. To many of the party's fat cats he is a hero. He is well liked by party regulars who do the spade work.

Yet there is ground for the qualms of those who, like Senator Saltonstall, must run in states which have just shown extreme preference for Democrats of the liberal persuasion. For when Senator Goldwater discusses his labor views—and it is a topic he seldom strays from for very long—he is both emotional and comprehensive in his indictment.

HE IS convinced that labor's Committee on Political Education is out to destroy him and all his kind. He says COPE gets results and that Republicans would do well to copy many of its techniques. He frankly adds that his best qualification for campaign chairman is his knowledge of COPE and how it works. There is no reason to believe that Senator Goldwater would not keep his anti-discrimination pledges to his fellow-Republicans. But the effect of his selection, given his attitude, will certainly be to alert labor and solidify its support of Democrats.

Argentine Head Has Loans, Headaches

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Arturo Frondizi of the Argentine will get no new loans when he comes to Washington Jan. 20. He already has "em. Over 346 million dollars" worth of stabilization loans, industrial development credits and surplus food disposal programs in the biggest package deal of its kind ever made. All intended to pull Argentina out of the ditch it was left in by Dictator Peron.

So this is strictly a good-will visit. It is not only Mr. Frondizi's first visit to the United States. It is the first time any Argentine president has been to the U.S. This will provide an opportunity for mutual inspection.

In addition to the usual VIP treatment in Washington, President Frondizi will be entertained by such American big shots as A. Thomas Taylor of International Packers in Chicago, Henry Ford II and General Motors President John F. Gordon in Detroit, Bankers Howard Sheperd of First National and John J. McCloy of Chase in New York.

THERE IS considerable American interest in President Frondizi. The problems he faces in his six-year term of office, which began last May 1, are superluminous.

There were grave doubts about him at first. He campaigned with Peronist support. This move apparently was necessary to get him elected. There were some suspicions that he would make deals with the Communists or go left.

Last July 9, when President Frondizi had been in office 68 days and there were fears that he would not last, he turned a corner.

He assured U.S. Export-Import Bank Director Vance Brand that his government would settle with the meat packers and power companies whose properties had been nationalized. He also announced that he would embark on a belt-tightening and austerity program.

This was all that was needed to get the technical help, the planning and the financial backing that would keep his government and his country from going down the drain.

It did not end his troubles. In November he had to put down a threatened revolt by his vice president, Alejandro Gomez. He had demanded Frondizi's resignation and an end to his austerity program. He may have other revolts ahead.

ARGENTINE people are up against ruinous inflation. Food, gasoline, power and other cost of living essentials have risen as much as 300 per cent.

President Frondizi has asked his people to eat no meat two days a week. Argentines love good living. They probably won't abide by the restriction for long. But the only alternative is that the Argentine must export more meat and earn more foreign exchange if she is to survive. It will take her two years to raise more beef. The problem is to keep her going till the beef is raised.

A similar situation applies to her oil problem. The Argentine has been importing 350 million dollars' worth of foreign petroleum products a year. This has dried up her available foreign exchange and helped keep her broke.

Geologists are sure there is plenty of oil underground in Argentina. President Frondizi has let contracts with private companies to develop these resources.

BUT IT WILL take two years to move in equipment, drill wells, lay pipelines, build refineries and produce enough products to run the country. Hopes that it will be self-sufficient in oil in three years are doubted.

Argentine railroads, nationalized and purchased by Peron from the British for 500 million dollars in one of the worst buys ever made, are considered unbelievably inefficient.

Argentina has 20 million people. Nine per cent of them are on government payrolls.

There is no one in the Argentine under 40 years who, in his adult life, has ever known anything but the Peron system of state controls. The people have to be completely indoctrinated to economic reality and a valid system of labor pay based on production.

All this makes a severe test for any president, any government, any people. And the real tests will come in two and three years when payments start falling due on the new loans which have been made to keep the country going.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — There is no doubt about it, men, the place to sit down with a Japanese actress and talk turkey—I don't talk Japanese, myself—is in her dressing room in that quiet, relaxed time between a matinee and evening performance. Both sides let their guards down, speak freely and the result is something worthwhile in the nature of discussion between a newspaperman and a girl.

Pat Suzuki's dressing room is up one flight at the St. James Theatre, and when I got there I found a slender, soft-spoken Japanese addressing Pat in swift, musical Japanese.

"I THANK you, it is kind of you to think of me," said Pat, in English, "but I do my own hair. One flick of a comb forward and one twist of my mane, to make a pony-tail. Time: three seconds. I also wash it myself, because I hate dryers and the time they take. But my most earnest thanks for your consideration."

The woman stood and bowed. Pat stood and bowed. The woman left. I bowed at Pat and she put out a forthright California right hand and said: "Hi."

"What did she want?" I asked. "She has a beauty salon," said Pat. "She invited me to become a patron. These things we handle with courtesy and kindness. After all it is cold out. She could have sent a note instead of coming in person."

PAT unflicked her bangs and untwisted her mane and relaxed in a mechanical chair that opened out like an umbrella. While she attended to her hair, I studied her dressing table. It is the great unlocker of secrets. You can tell a lot from the dressing table of an actress.

Some look as though a bulldozer had moved across them, some are as spartan as the cell of a monk. Some look like a trash bin. Pat's looked like the desk of a student. Turned out—she is.

Items: makeup objects, a brush, a comb, two powder puffs, a box of cleansing tissues, a telegram (neatly folded) and nine books. The books were neatly stacked in a line, their spines to the front.

Titles: Frank Rooney's "The Heel of Spring"; Dostoevsky's "The Idiot"; Wylie's "Generation of Vipers"; Andersen's fairy tales in one fat volume; all of S. J. Perelman in one fat volume; a book in French concerning the Court of Louis XV; "A Private Guide to Istanbul"; Sam Dixon's "My San Francisco" and "Atlas Struggled" by Ayn Rand. The rest was a dustless, limitless, empty expanse free of ribbons, clots of powder, mounds of cigarette stubs or anything else.

I SAID I thought she had a fortunate circumstance not in possession of almost all of the Oriental players in her "Flower Drum Song" or in the across-the-street "World of Suzie Wong." She could and did speak accentless, perfect English and could sing as few have sung since Ethel Merman. A small, ragged-edged cloud swept across her face.

"You mean I can sing and make albums and do not have to depend on a mainly Oriental show to get work," she said. "True. And not true. One has to have happiness, too. And the blessing of security from within. That sounds like a Method actress. Never mind the security from within."

"I'm not Method. But I am troubled. I don't feel myself as the Beller from Bellville. I like to sing ballads. I am betting because it has been forced on me. You belt out in a night club, and I don't love them at all. You belt out in a show because you are supposed to be the firebrand girl, the igniter, while all others around you are gentle."

"I'M GENTLE, too. But I am expected to go out after a spell of their gentleness and set the place afire like dropping a match in an open drum of gasoline. But this makes me unhappy. It's not me. Result: I have been talking to a song therapist. Remarkable young man."

"He leads you to peace and self-quietude by letting you sing what you want to sing and pointing out that any other way is just for money, a job. But this is the real you, Odd, but it works. I'm not sure I'll take a course with him, but he makes enormous sense. He could, also, give me the gumption to be an actress and not just a song-beller. I'd like to be a good actress, a real one. Right now, in my own conscience, I am a loud singer who speaks a few dramatic lines in between. But do I send out conviction to an audience? I don't know. I am dissatisfied with myself. I'll tell you that."

IN FREE time, what?

"I am a remnant addict," she said. "I buy remnants at $1.35 a yard which were $7 a yard. They told me to walk through Orchard Street on the Lower East Side on a Sunday afternoon and bargain. I went and became so fascinated I forgot to look for yardage. Then I found some and talked for an hour to two sweet, bearded old men who owned the shop."

"I loved them so I could not bargain. They said it was $2 a yard and I paid that and when I started to leave one said: 'You did not bargain. You are like a chicken ready to lose its feathers. Here is your change at $1.65 a yard. You need protection!'"

"MY MOTHER is making a skirt for me. I tried to. Hopeless. I said 'Suzuki, you are shaped thus and so here and thus and so there and held the material to me and cut accordingly and it was a mess. But my mother thinks she can salvage a reasonable skirt from it.'"

We talked of enchanted San Francisco and history-drenched Istanbul and suddenly it was 8 o'clock and time to leave.

When you see "Flower Drum Song," don't believe that that tiny beller from Bellville is trying to be the new Merman. She is having it rough just being contented young Pat Suzuki, new Broadway star.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK — Ever years for the glamorous life of an actress?

Well, take it from Barbara Bel Geddes, who has made a success on stage, screen and television, there is more hard work than glamor in a theatrical career.

"When I first started," she recalled, "I thought it would be all fun-like appearing in a high school play. I didn't realize the discipline involved."

"You have to treat yourself like an athlete. You're always in training. You have to save yourself for those hours on the stage or before the cameras, when you'll need every bit of energy you possess."

BARBARA IS THE daughter of the noted designer, Norman Bel Geddes.

Although Barbara enjoys Hollywood, she feels a Broadway star has one big advantage over a movie star.

"A stage star, unlike a film star, has privacy after she finishes her day's work. People don't bother her."

"I like that. After a show, I like to go home and live my own life. I like to put on a comfortable pair of shoes and breathe."

"The theater is in the theater. You don't have to take it home with you."

Barbara, who is hazel-eyed and flaxen-haired, likes to dress casually in a skirt and close fitting blouse, open at the collar. She usually wears neither lipstick nor rouge.

"When I'm in a play," she explained, "I get sick of looking in the mirror as I put on makeup."

She is fond of outdoor sports, and looks like the outdoor type.

ONE OF THE worst problems of the acting profession, Barbara said, is the endless waiting.

"You can't just sit down and do a job by yourself as a painter does," she continued. "You have to wait for so many people. You have to wait for the playwright, the producer, the director, and the public."

"But there is one wonderful thing about acting. It never really bores you."

Barbara is a woman who isn't sure just where she lives. She and her husband, Windsor Lewis, the stage director, have a 60-acre farm in Putnam County, New York; a 100-acre farm in County Galway, Ireland; and right now they are dwelling in a small house on the East Side in Manhattan.

In this menage they have two daughters, three turtles, two hamsters, a miniature marmoset monkey, two golden retrievers, a Maltese dog, two cats and 20 fish.

"By the time I get them all fed in the morning," said Barbara, "it's time to start preparing them lunch."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — This man and his wife stood irresolutely in the doorway of the reception chamber searching for the receiving line. They looked bewildered, as well they might. There wasn't any receiving line.

This reception was planned to be superlative high class. An announcer had been hired to call out the names of arriving notables, as they do in the movies of royal balls. The fellow had rehearsed a list that contained about as imposing an array of names as you could compile in these United States.

The hired name-caller took up his post at the entrance to the drawing room on the second floor of the Washington club. This used to be the DuPont Circle home of the late Eleanor Medill "Cissie" Patterson, so you can guess at the sumptuousness of the setting.

THE DEPUTY fire marshal came in to make sure the place was safe for the nation's leaders, and decided it wasn't. He declared there were too many inflammable Christmas wreaths and decorations. He showed away the name-caller and summoned the club's janitorial staff to dismantle the yuletide decor.

The help, in overalls and below-stairs ragtags, were pulling down and sweeping up when Italian Ambassador Manlio Brosie came in. Unable to find the guests of honor, or anybody else he recognized, the envoy beat it, shaking his fine Italian head.

Sir Leslie Munro, the former New Zealand Ambassador, came in with the first piece of solid news. He said the three guests of honor, Senators Kenneth E. Keating and Jacob Javits, of New York, and Hugh Scott, of Pennsylvania, were held up because Senator Wayne "Old Man" Morse, of Oregon, had gotten up in the Senate chamber just before the scheduled quitting time and launched into a small filibuster.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy came and went without seeing the honor guests. The lesser guests were milling around aimlessly, trying to keep clear of the wreath-raggers and tinsel-pickers, when the man mentioned earlier came in with his pretty wife.

They had arrived medium-early because there were still five places they had promised to go, they being somewhat in demand. A news photographer looked at them idly and murmured to himself:

"I know them from some place."

Abruptly the photog snapped out of it, crying:

"Migawd, it's the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon."

In the confusion, the honor guests arrived, but it was now far too late for them to form a receiving line. Besides, the hired name-caller had either gotten lost, or been swept out. The Nixons posed collectively with Senators Keating, Javits and Scott, then individually. Late arriving well-wishers couldn't track down either a receiving line or the honorees because the latter were all over the place getting their "pitchers took."

I COULDN'T figure how the Vice President, who is supposed to preside over the Senate, had been able to get away before the three Senators. The mystery was solved for me next day by Gale McGee, the new Democratic Senator from Wyoming.

Senator McGee revealed that the Vice President had signalled him to sit in for him just before Morse began his talkathon—although McGee had been a Senator only one day.

"It was almost the appointed quitting time," said Senator McGee, "and I thought I might be stuck for five minutes at the most. I was stuck there five and a half hours."

Toward the end, I was alone with Morse in that great Senate chamber, all the rest having fled. By recess time, at 10:07 p. m., I had spent more time presiding over the Senate than I had in my own seat as a Senator."

Beards As Sign Of Honor

HAVANA — It has been a just, a tough and enormously romantic revolution.

Romantic, in the sense that the bearded men who have fought with the piper of Cuba are as picturesque, in behavior and appearance, as characters out of the Bible thrown on a large screen by Cecil de Mille. They are of it, too. And infinitely prouder than most men.

YOU COULD tell that before the great New Year's overthrow, when the Batista forces discovered a mysterious carpet bag in a street in Havana. Terrified that it held a bomb, they handled it gingerly—later discovered it was stuffed with black whiskers and a note.

The men who fought the hardest and longest may wear their beards the rest of their lives. Many of these untrimmed fur pieces straggle chestward and below. The longer the beard, the prouder the man of his role in blotting out tyranny.

"DON'T TAKE a picture of them," spat a lady from the underground when a jeep-load of only slightly fuzzed fellows cruised past me in the Castro victory parade.

"They're three-day wonders."

You could get better beards than that going fishing Saturday and Sunday."

THE MEN WITH the greatest extension of chin also appear slightly suspicious of the short stuff.

This is quite natural, since it is well known that there may still be thousands of Batista sympathizers who are posing as revolutionists strictly to save their necks.

"They will do anything to get away," said a former member of the underground. "Batista, you know he took only the main ones off the island. Now nobody can leave but students. The rest of his people, they are just like what you call a rat in the trap."

SO THEY POSE as members of the 26th of July movement, in uniform and rifle and as much overgrowth as they can work up in this short period of pseudo-allegiance, and hope to get by with it.

"This is why there was still sometime shooting," my informant went on. "The Batista men probably try to stir up a fuss so the people will think the revolutionists are dividing themselves. But it won't last. Almost everybody are crazy about Castro."

FIDEL CASTRO, himself, has a quite modest beard compared with some of his long-term lieutenants who look like mystics out of Tibet. His reputation already established, and firm, he can afford an occasional trim.

It is difficult to imagine him as a man in tropics with a clean shave. I have stared at him, admiring the eyes, at once gentle and alive, above the jet-covered set of his chin. He has a biblical sort of look which the people adore and respect.

WITHOUT THE beard, he has a plump face. He might be Joe Blow Castro, undetected in a crowd.

He must have thought of this, when he publicly asked the people if he should shave his badge of honor. They screamed "Never,"

Tawes Caravan Figures In Annapolis Ceremonies

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—There was a mass exodus of sorts when a police-escorted caravan of chartered buses and private cars left today for Annapolis. They went to see J. Millard Tawes, native of Crisfield, inaugurated as governor.

Souvenir lapel badges were available and bands and various marching units from Somerset County added to the color of the inaugural parade. On hand for the festive occasion was a Crisfield-sponsored float—"Home of the Hard Crab Derby." And there were a string of upper county surreys, seen recently in observance of "Ye Olde Princess Anne Days," high-stepping units of Crisfield, Marion and Princess Anne volunteer fire departments, and a miniature "Governor and Mrs. Tawes."

Also participating in the parade was the 48-man ROTC drill team and 30-piece marching band from Maryland State College.

Dogs and wolves have retained so many basic similarities through the ages that they still fall prey to the same parasites and diseases.

Inauguration Site Will Be Changed Soon

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Jan. 13 inauguration ceremony of J. Millard Tawes in the Senate chamber today to see the new governor of Maryland ought to be the last, in the opinion of Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert.

He has prepared a bill and given it to Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) to consider for introduction. It would permit future governors to be sworn in anywhere in the State capitol or on the grounds.

The ceremony must be held now according to law in the Senate chamber. It is entirely too small to accommodate even some of those who might want to see it.

The chamber seats only 29 senators. There are no others on the floor itself except four sofas. Some extra chairs will be placed on the floor for guests. Two small balconies overlook it.

By contrast, across the hall is the House chamber with 129 seats, considerably more empty space for other chairs, and two larger balconies.

The 123 delegates must find standing room around the sides of the Senate chamber to witness the swearing in. Each of them and the senators are allowed two tickets for guests and the governor has plenty of friends who want to attend.

Sybert envisioned the governor being sworn in on the east portico of the State capitol with the audience seated on the lawn when the weather is suitable. Tawes went there to make his inaugural address after the cramped swearing ceremony.

Sybert feels the House chamber would be a more realistic place for the ceremony if the weather outside was poor.

Sen. Beall Gets 2,910 More Votes

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A mistake in election returns reported from Calvert County has given Sen. Beall (R-Md) 2,910 more votes than he actually received in his Nov. 4 victory over Democrat Thomas D'Alessandro, a fellow Republican of Beall, said today.

William B. Prendergast, associate director of research for the Republican Committee and a resident of Annapolis, said he has pointed out the mistake three times to the secretary of state's office here, but Secretary Claude B. Hellmann won't correct it.

Prendergast said he received a letter from Hellmann yesterday insisting that the office records showed no mistake in returns which give:

D'Alessandro 2,053, Beall 4,953. The official returns from Calvert, as reported by election officials to the press after the vote canvass, showed D'Alessandro carried the county 2,181 to 2,953 for Beall.

Prendergast said an error apparently was made in transmitting the results to the secretary of state's office. He said he was interested "for the sake of accuracy" in seeing the official tally corrected.

The secretary has mimeographed and distributed the election returns.

A change in the Calvert vote won't make any difference as far as the election is concerned. Beall won it by a statewide plurality of 14,744 in the official canvass. The secretary of state list shows him winning by 17,788.

Hellmann, who went out of office at noon today, was not immediately available for comment on the apparent discrepancy.

Brewery Files Damage Action

Suit for $10,000 damages has been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by the Queen City Brewing Company for damages allegedly caused by blasting in Wills Creek during the flood control project between June, 1957 and October, 1958.

William L. Wilson, as attorney for the brewery, filed the declaration yesterday against the E. J. Albrecht Company, a Chicago firm which has its local office at 304 North Mechanic Street.

The declaration asserted that the Albrecht firm exploded large charges of dynamite or other high explosives which shook the brewery at Market Street and Wills Creek.

Damage to the brewery, cited in the declaration, included sinking and cracking of the pavement driveway, cracked and broken walls, smashing of window panes and damage to the storage tanks which caused them to leak.

LaVale Board Time Request Turned Down

The State Board of Health has declined to grant an open-end extension of time limits on an order requiring the LaVale Sanitary Commission to have prepared a comprehensive engineering survey for sewerage services in the LaVale area.

The decision was reported by Dr. Perry F. Prather, director of the Board of Health, in answer to a commission request for a time extension.

Dr. Prather said the board appreciates the commission's desire to obtain a loan from the Housing and Home Finance Agency to finance the preparation of plans.

He said there was no reason to expect a substantial delay in action upon any proper application to the HHFA.

Dr. Prather said, however, that the Board would regard the commission's letter as a report of progress.

The commission was asked to keep the Board of Health advised as to progress, particularly in connection with pressing for approval of the HHFA loan application.

In another area action, the Board of Health has granted the Board of Allegany County Commissioners an extension until July 1 of an order for the completion of a preliminary engineering survey of sewerage needs of the Georges Creek area.

The extension was granted so the county can get needed local legislation on bidding for professional services.

State Fire Marshall To Address Kiwanis

E. Wade Thomas of Keyser, an assistant state fire marshal for West Virginia, will discuss "Fire Prevention" at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m. Thursday at Central YMCA.

It will be the first meeting since the installation of Dr. Richard E. Bolyard as president and will be the first as vice president and program chairman for J. Daniel Eisenberger.

The obverse of a coin is the side bearing the principal image (inscription or, as in those of the United States, the date).

GETS NEW POST—Robert K. VanderYacht, Braddock Road, has been promoted to superintendent of production planning at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation. He succeeds W. A. Deremer, who has been transferred to a position in the production planning staff in the firm's Charlotte (N. C.) offices. A native of Michigan, he is a graduate of Michigan College of Mining and Technology and holds a master's degree in industrial engineering from Columbia University. He is a veteran of World War II and has been affiliated with the local Naval Reserve Division.

Fort Hill Class Reunion Scheduled

A meeting of the members of the Fort Hill Class of 1934 will be held January 21 at 7:30 in Central YMCA to plan for a reunion in the early spring. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Committees will be appointed and the type of reunion selected. Wayne Cauter and Mrs. Bessie Burton are cochairmen.

State Faces Problems

Tawes Takes Office Oath As Governor

Maryland Leader Resolves To Meet Difficult Decisions.

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—His principal task will be to keep Maryland abreast of the times "and at the same time to preserve the financial integrity of the state," J. Millard Tawes said today in his inaugural address as governor.

"I say quite frankly that there may be times when we find it impossible to reconcile requests for services with our ability to pay," said the Democrat taking over after eight years of Republican rule.

"In such an instance, clearly our alternative is to forego the service or to provide the additional revenues. As for my part, I am resolved to face the difficult choice with forthrightness and determination."

Reviews Parade

Tawes, the 59th governor of Maryland, its first since 1920 from the comparatively thinly populated Eastern Shore and only the third from that region, spoke from the east portico of the oldest (1771) State capitol in use in the United States.

The 64-year-old former State comptroller was sworn in earlier by Court of Appeals Judge William L. Henderson in the Senate chamber, reviewed a parade, and then greeted well-wishers in an old Senate chamber where George Washington resigned as commander in chief of the Continental Army in 1783.

"We are moving into a new era," Tawes said in his inaugural address, "an era which will produce new problems and new challenges and a period in which the people of Maryland may be called upon to make decisions of great consequence."

He said he would put off detailed discussion of fiscal problems facing him until later this month in his budget message to the Legislature.

Sees Expansion

Meanwhile, he predicted "that during the next four years we will witness an expansion of industrial and business activity such as never before has been seen in this state."

"Every report indicates that our population will continue to grow, and at an ever-faster rate. At the same time, we may expect the demand for services provided by the state to attain new peaks. "Pressures will pile up for more highways, for more schools, for better hospitals and better prisons, for an improved welfare program."

"I have no misgivings at all about our capacity to meet the demands as they arise."

Among these not mentioned by Tawes are demands of school teachers and State employees for salary raises which would cost 22 million dollars.

In lieu of details at this time, Tawes listed "four fundamental principles which I believe to be essential to the conduct of a vigorous, progressive and intelligent administration."

His first "is to look ahead." In explanation of this Tawes made his only mention of what (Continued on Page 9)

Infringement Of Law Court Faces Walsh

Bishop James E. Walsh, 67, of Cumberland, has been arrested "for infringement of Chinese law" and is in "normal health," the U. S. State Department has learned.

U. S. Sen. J. Glen Beall said the State Department was informed yesterday that the British consulate general in Shanghai has finally had a reply from the Chinese Communist Foreign Affairs Department at Shanghai to a British note of last November on Bishop Walsh.

The Chinese reply stated that Bishop Walsh, Maryknoll Missioner to China for the past 30 years "had been arrested for infringement of Chinese law" and that he was in "normal health."

The note further stated that no information concerning these charges could be revealed while the case continued under investigation.

The Chinese Communist Foreign Affairs Department official "thought" that Bishop Walsh was being "detained in Shanghai."

The Department of State, Senator Beall said, "welcomes this new information, however scanty, on Bishop Walsh's whereabouts and health, in view of the fact that as late as last Friday, at the most recent meeting in Warsaw between the United States and Communist China a representative, the Communists again refused to reply to Ambassador Jacob Beam's request for information on Bishop Walsh."

Local Hospital Benefits From Woman's Will

The Board of Governors of Memorial Hospital has been named beneficiary of part of the estate of Mrs. Mary D. Luterman, who died May 27, 1958.

Mrs. Luterman was employed as a typewriter operator by the Times and Allegany Company for more than 20 years.

William R. Carscaden, executor of Mrs. Luterman's estate, advised the board of governors of the hospital that it was Mrs. Luterman's desire that the money be used for any improvements which may be needed in the labor and delivery rooms of the hospital's maternity department.

Charles A. Piper, president of the board, said this morning that the board is deeply grateful and sincerely appreciative of Mrs. Luterman's generosity and that her request as to how the money is to be spent shall be followed. John A. Moberly, superintendent of the hospital, said the institution will take advantage of this opportunity to improve the facilities in the maternity department.

Man Jailed For Beating Of Wife

J. Marshall Kidwell, 111 Humbird Street, was sentenced to 60 days in the Allegany County Jail this morning in Trial Magistrate's Court.

Magistrate Morris Baron sentenced the man after finding him guilty of assault on his wife, Geraldine Kidwell, at their home on the evening of January 6.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Baron noted that the defendant had been convicted and given a suspended sentence on a similar charge one year ago.

Posture Topic Of PTA Meeting Set Tomorrow

Posture will be discussed on the program of Cresaptown School Parent-Teacher Association at the meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. A film, "How Do We Stand?" will be shown. Dr. Rita Brinker, Dr. Robert Shrut and Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education for the Board of Education, will conduct a question and answer period after the movie.

The Allegany High School Boys Quartet, comprised of Fred Richner, Paul Ossip, David Kerns and Clyde Baniz, will sing several selections. Home room visitation will be from 7:15 to 7:30 p. m.

Glass Strike To Halt Autos

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Negotiations were reported "deadlocked" today in the 101-day strike at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plants which will halt the production of 1959 models at the Chrysler Corp.

Federal mediator Robert Donahoe reported that company and union representative were scheduled to meet this morning—possibly in separate sessions at first—in an attempt to iron out their differences.

The walkout which began Oct. 5 idled some 13,000 workers in the glass company's 11 plants in six states. But the draw-out strike has caused a shortage of windshields and a Chrysler spokesman reported Tuesday that more than 13,000 employees in plants in Detroit, Evansville, Ind., and Newark, Del., will be paid off Friday as a result.

Donahoe said the representatives of the company and the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union exchanged proposals during Tuesday's day-long session but each found the other's suggestions unacceptable.

The mediator said that he met with the union bargaining committee separately Tuesday night but declined to report on any progress.

Donahoe said that the areas of difference encompass a series of problems including seniority incentive plans.

Night Class Registration Being Held

Persons interested in registering for adult education classes may do so tomorrow night at Fort Hill, Beall, Valley, Bruce, Flintstone and Oldtown high schools.

Vacancies exist in all courses except the clothing construction classes, and the public is invited to take advantage of the educational opportunities which exist.

J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational and industrial education, for the Allegany County Board of Education, said vacancies exist in all courses except clothing construction classes.

At the initial registration last night, a class of beginning bookkeeping was filled at Fort Hill High School.

There are openings at Fort Hill for beginning typing, the ABC system of shorthand, and metal trades blueprint reading.

The latter one is a new course that will train a person to read and interpret blueprints and make simple technical sketches.

Other popular courses are given in home furnishings, cooking and home crafts.

Classes are conducted from 7:15 to 9:15 p. m., and interested adults are invited to register with the instructor of the class of their choice tomorrow evening. Only persons past 16 years of age who are not attending a regular high school are eligible. A minimum of 15 registrants is required in order to form a class. Persons desiring additional information about the classes are asked to phone the Board of Education.

Chamber Unit Aims Parks, Water Needs

Region Expansion Connected With Both Area Issues

The area development committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce discussed the water resources of the region and possible development of state parks in the two-county area at a meeting last night at the chamber offices.

Albert S. Paye, chairman, presided at the meeting, at which the future water needs of the region were outlined, both from the point of home and sewage usage, and in connection with industrial expansion.

Participating in the discussion, besides Paye, were Earl D. Chaney, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor J. Edwin Keech, James A. Avirett, William George, John Workmeister and Robert C. Petersen, chamber manager.

It was stressed that the water resources of the region must be conserved and maintained at a high level to insure the growth of the area, both industrially and population-wise.

State Ownership High

During the discussion on the development of the state parks in the two counties it was brought out that the state owns 110,302 acres in Allegany and Garrett counties, the total representing 59 per cent of all state land in the area, exclusive of property under control of the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Paye pointed out that the State Department of Forests and Parks and the Game and Inland Fish Commission control 91 per cent of the 110,302 acres, and that some money is available for the development of state park land.

The matter of roadside parks also came up for discussion, and it agreed that more should be established in this region for the convenience of motorists.

Aid To Tourist Trade

The roadside parks would aid greatly in expanding the tourist trade in the region, it was stated, and the matter will be submitted for consideration of the general membership of the chamber group.

Petersen reminded the committee that the Chamber of Commerce has been invited to attend a meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club, today at 6:30 p. m. at the All Chan Shrine Country Club.

The speaker will be B. C. Atwood of Hagerstown, manager of the area development department of the Potomac Edison Company. He will speak on "What other communities are doing in industrial and area development."

Atwood and the Potomac Edison Company have served as unofficial advisors to the local chamber's industrial development committee and have furnished leads for the possible location of industries here, Petersen said.

Textile Union Sets Nomination

Officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, will be nominated today and tomorrow at meetings in the Textile Hall, North Mechanic Street.

John G. Thomas, president, said nominations may be made from the floor at the session today at 7:30 p. m. and tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

The election will be held later in the month with arrangements to be made by the committee.

Police Probe Entry At Romney School

Council Gets Recreation Report From Director

The tenth annual report of the Cumberland Recreation Department was submitted at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council by C. Eugene Mason, recreation director.

After accepting the report, the council voted to extend Mason's contract for a year. The vote was unanimous, with several members expressing approval of the work done by Mason and his staff.

The report shows that the Recreation Department operated on a budget of $41,062.90 during 1958, with the major portion of that amount for salaries of the staff personnel, and salaries and expenses incurred during its spring and summer program.

Breakdown Given

Mason's breakdown shows $19,122.94, or 47 per cent of the budget, was spent in connection with the spring and summer program, and that $21,939.96 or 53 per cent of the total, went toward salaries of the department staff. Salaries and expenses of operating the Constitution Park pool accounted for $3,713.12, nine per cent of the total outlay. There was $2,948.35 spent in connection with the department's fall and winter program; $981.66 for automobile expenses and repairs; $857.37 for office expenses, and $460.19 for miscellaneous costs.

In a review of the department's program, Mason praised the work of his predecessors and the strides made since its beginning in 1947 under the direction of Edmund Hoey.

The Recreation Department operates 15 supervised playgrounds with a registration in excess of 3,000 youngsters; a municipal swimming pool, eight softball-baseball fields and sponsors numerous activities designed to offer programs for all age levels.

Mason's report pointed out that during the spring and summer months an excellent program of baseball, tennis, swimming and playground activities are offered to the youth of the community.

Extensive Program

Under the baseball program teams participate in the Dapper Dan Little League, Hot Slove League and City High School League. Approximately 260 take part in the Little League, 144 in the Hot Slove circuit and 70 in the High School division.

Tennis instruction is offered to teenagers four afternoons per week at Fort Hill, North End and Gephart courts with 450 youngsters participating.

Mason's report also revealed that approximately 13,254 youngsters enjoyed swimming at Constitution Park and both junior and senior lifesaving courses were offered by the Rec Department.

The city's 15 playgrounds were supervised by 21 leaders and offered apparatus play, contests, races, board games, doll shows, picnics, dancing, low organized games, playground newspapers, sand box playing, story hours, teenage clubs and wading pool play. Some 3,629 children between the ages of six and 18 were registered on the playlots.

The intra-city playground activities included arts and crafts exhibits, three-man basketball tournament, fishing rodeo, a picnic, queen contest, Rock 'n Roll contest, talent contest, volleyball tournament, playground movies and a learn-to-swim program.

Other Activities

Adult activities offered by the Rec Department last year included a bridge playing group, golf instructions, softball, swimming classes and tennis.

Youth activities during the fall and winter months included baby sitting classes, basketball leagues Saturday afternoon gym classes, hobby clubs, ice skating, roller skating, movies and game sessions.

Adult activities during these months featured badminton, basketball leagues, beginners bridge classes, gym sessions, hobby clubs, ice skating and citizen clubs.

During the year the Recreation Department distributed 23 reports, supplied baby-sitting lists and distributed picnic booklets. Mason said the department (Continued on Page 20)

Man Fined For Operation Of Used Car Lot

Robert Klink, 911 Oldtown Road, was fined $25 in Police Court this morning for operating a used car lot without a license.

Klink was arrested by Lt. Det. James E. Van and Det. Thomas See on a warrant charging him with violation of Section 1314, Chapter 9, of the city code.

He was represented in court this morning by James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, who entered a plea of not guilty for the defendant.

Picture Introduced

Lt. Van introduced as evidence a picture taken at Klink's lot yesterday which showed a large sign advertising used cars for sale and also a truck with a used car license.

Avirett told the court that Klink had applied for a license with the Mayor and Council in September, but had been refused the permit.

The attorney stated that since that time, Klink has been engaged in the operation of a gasoline station on the property, but had not sold any cars, or had not attempted to sell any.

Avirett said that the Mayor and Council had rejected the permit without giving reason. He noted that the property in question is located in a district which is zoned for business.

Magistrate Baron in passing sentence compared the case with a merchant. He stated that when a man goes into business he must obtain a permit. If people do not come to his business and make purchases that does not mean he can operate without a permit.

The magistrate noted that the picture introduced by Lt. Van and Det. See clearly showed that Klink was in the used car business.

Court Order Restrains Picketing

Injunction Obtained By Trucker Against Teamsters Union Here

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley has signed an order in Garrett County Circuit Court restraining 14 individuals and Local 453 Teamsters Union from "engaging in acts of intimidation, coercion, violence, breach of peace, and mass picketing" of the Sanders Motor Freight, Inc., in Oakland.

Judge Fraley also gave the 14 individuals and union until January 28 to show cause why a number of other items prayed by the plaintiff should not be granted.

They include a permanent injunction pertaining to the mass picketing and violence, monetary compensation to the Sanders firm for loss and damage which it has suffered due to the dispute.

Defendants Listed

Named defendants are Forrest Rohrbach, of Hutton; Paul W. Hoyer, of Oakland; John Kimble, of Mt. Lake Park; Harry Corbin, of Oakland; Marshall DeWitt, of Mt. Lake Park; John Evans, of Oakland; Ernest Shaffer, of Aurora, W. Va.; Clifford Feather, of Oakland; Ernest Trenton, of Keyser; Paul Ridgely, Cumberland; Raymond Yoder, Grantsville; James Helms, Kingwood; and Hobart Shillingburg, Aurora and Local 453 Teamsters Union.

The bill of complaint, filed by William H. Geppert, attorney for the company, states the firm maintains terminals in Oakland, Cumberland, Baltimore, Clarksburg, Charleston, Parkersburg, and Wheeling, W. Va.

It was stated Corbin, Yoder and Shillingburg named as respondents are persons who own tractors which are used to haul trailers owned by the Sanders company and lease the same under separate lease agreements.

Local 453 Is Agent

The remaining individuals are persons who own tractors, and who formerly leased same to the company under separate lease agreements, which were cancelled by the firm last Saturday under provisions of said agreement.

The bill of complaint states Local 453 represents and is the bargaining agent for employees of the company at terminals in Oakland and Cumberland, and claim to be representing the individuals who are named in the suit.

On January 11, the firm under terms of individual lease agreements of Corbin, Yoder and Shillingburg assigned certain freight for transportation, but on this date and continuing to the present time the respondents refused to comply with the terms of the agreements.

On January 11 and continuing to the present time all of the respondents caused to be set up at the company's terminals at Oakland and Cumberland picket lines manned by the respondents.

Claim No Dispute

The bill of complaint stated that on January 9, Charles E. Stutzman, a representative of Local 453, notified the complainant that if it did not sit down and negotiate with the union a contract between the leased operators and the complainant, that he would shut down the complainant's operations.

It was stated the complainant notified Stutzman that the individual respondents were independent contractors, were not employees of the complainant, that no labor dispute existed between the parties and that Local 453 had no jurisdiction in the matter and should not interfere with the company's operations.

The complainant said that on January 11 the union notified that the union was pulling the individual leased operators, who had a contract with the complainant, and also the employees of the company, off the job and instructing them not to return to work.

It was stated the union and respondents engaged in picketing the terminal in Oakland and so interfered with the company's operations that it became impossible for the firm to continue to conduct its business at the terminal.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Earl Blaik, one of the most successful football tutors of the current generation, surprised colleagues and generals alike Tuesday night by retiring as Army's head coach and athletic director.

He will surrender both positions Feb. 15 — his 62nd birthday — to accept "one of several opportunities either in television or business."

Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, superintendent of the Military Academy, announced Blaik's resignation and admitted in an official statement, "We will find it extremely difficult to select a successor."

In 1951, Blaik's team was rocked by the "cribbing" scandal that robbed him of almost his entire squad, including his own son, Bobby. The Cadets' first team quarterback, instead of resigning, then, Blaik vowed he would lead

Two Under Consideration

However, informed sources told United Press International that Dale Hall, Black's No. 1 assistant for the last three years, and since Lombardi, who served un-der the taciturn ex-cavalryman for five years before joining the professional New York Giants as their offensive coach in 1954, already are being considered for the prestige-laden post.

Black reportedly endorsed Hall as his logical successor when he turned in his resignation. A ne-ephew of Parsons, Kan., Hall per-formed in the same backfield with Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard

Army back to the top.

It wasn't an easy task. The Ca-dets won only two of seven games in 1951 but they started to roll after two years' loss when they posted a 7-1 record. With the 1953 season, Black in-stalled the 1958 season, Black in-stalled his "lone end," offense and the Cadets again went unbeaten, clinixing their season with a 22-6 victory over Navy.

Now, thought Black, Army officials finally would permit him to lead his players into a bowl game. But the ban was not lifted—and that's when the old soldier decid-ed "this is the proper time for me to withdraw from college sports."

Blak's greatest squad — the 1944 national champions. He served as an assistant coach at Purdue, New Hampshire and Florida before returning to the Point.

"If they are looking for a successor on the present staff, Hall is the man," one Army spokesman admitted. "However, Vince Lombardi also must be considered."

The winners were paced by Terry and Ronnie Colaw who hit for 17 and 13 markers while Toby Colaw shovled in 20 counters for the Grads. Bob Shiffy and Bill

'Rifleman', 'Naked City' Cited

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Rifleman and Naked City stand back to back on the Tuesday night ABC-TV schedule. It is quite fitting therefore that they should face in different directions.

Both shows, as I said back on Sept. 30 when they bowed in, are under a rug — like dust — is the respectable additions to the TV way one character Tuesday night catalogue. The Rifleman is a put it. And the people in Naked City break out in the one way casual penetration. Naked City is they know how-through violence. Despite their differences in attitude — one rooted in the myth, the other faced with the loss of the myth — the two shows do meet on one common ground. For want of a better word, I'll call this nation has undergone — the Civil War and the Great Depression — and each carries the scars of these experiences.

However, there is a sharp difference in the attitude of each show. The Rifleman, like most good Westerns, has a feeling of unbounded space built into it. The horizon seems unlimited and so does the potential of each life. The Western is a container for the American dream. And therein lies its great attraction — it reassures us.

In Naked City, the dream has been shattered. The people of Naked City feel a terrible need for space, for freedom. They are hemmed in, squeezed. They talk about touching the sky.

In Memoriam

In loving memory for wife and mother, Mrs. Dorothy Barr, who died January 11, 1959.

It was just a year ago dear mother that you had to go away. The days are long and little we can say. But the memories we have of you are precious. And we shall never forget your dear face. Until we meet again in God's eternal place.

Card of Thanks

We take this means to thank all those who helped during the death of our dear husband and father. Especially Rev. Brooks Henry, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and all those who donated the use of their cars.

Mrs. Anna Hollinger and Children
The family of Lucille Bennett, of Hancock, Md., wishes to thank their friends and neighbors for flowers, cards and many kind words shown during her illness and following her death. G. McKINLEY BENNETT

55 CADILLAC
Beyond any doubt, the cleanest, nicest, most used car you've ever seen.
"62" 4 Dr. 2 tone dark top over mist
green. Every inch of this gem is original from bumper to bumper. 19,000 miles on this one owner, garage kept beauty. Equipped with power steering and brakes, power windows, power seat, automatic e/c, Hydramatic, radio and heater. Also factory air conditioned for your added driving pleasure, that will be impossible to find in a few more months. No words can describe this car to its proper level. If you're looking for a show room piece, this is it.
Expect this Cadillac to be like
new. You've never seen a nicer one.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find out what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, January 12, 1939

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—The Moon, Mercury and Venus are among the favorably placed planets this day. Familiar matters like your occupational duties, also mental work and the artistic professions flourish.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—An agreeable period for your special talents such as the artistic, creative and inventive. Do exploit these fine assets and you will gain.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—An invigorating, inspiring day. Mental alertness, eloquence and enthusiasm should be at a peak. Don't fear to try new (if valuable) methods, ideas, tools, etc., but stick to one project at a time. Don't scatter your energies.

JUNE 22 to JULY 21 (Cancer)—Home, household affairs, the professions and efforts to better living conditions for humans as a whole are among the interests and activities honored on this encouraging day.

JULY 22 to AUGUST 21 (Leo)—While not particularly stimulating, aspects are generally beneficent. Therefore, do your best to make your efforts count credibly. Gather knowledge, improve your skills.

AUGUST 22 to SEPTEMBER 21 (Virgo)—A quiet outlook here. Mercury's position encourages study, research, making important improvements, especially the way to valuable leads in fields in which to advance.

SEPTEMBER 22 to OCTOBER 21 (Libra)—An amiable, responsive time in which to expand and cultivate your talents for further achievement. You have talents for diversified fields and you could also find a hobby remunerative.

OCTOBER 22 to NOVEMBER 21 (Scorpio)—With your natural shrewdness and capacity for keen living and working with advanced implements, this day should adapt itself to any program set out for you or one which you have planned yourself. Fine influences.

NOVEMBER 22 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—A splendid time in which to attend to business ventures and financial transactions, but don't be reckless on too sure of your judgment. When in doubt, consult with those who know, but keep going ahead.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—On the whole, this day is generous, and can give satisfaction and happy returns for earnest efforts, intelligent management and smart action. New methods may help to further your progress.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Inspiring aspects to make this day a memorable one for achievement. New methods may help to further your progress.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Nostalgia in fine position. If you get the right start and keep going at a reasonable, but not too anxious pace, you can make this day one of your most productive. Mental and physical work equally favored.

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—You both today are self-reliant, determined. You share knowledge and usually make good use of it. Once you recognize your valuable traits, you usually develop them and climb the ladder in success. You like solitude for meditation and to gather more learning. Try not to permit self-consciousness to hamper your efforts to reach high goals and force your way over difficult hurdles. Cultivate patience and good humor.

Written for NEA Service

North probably bid a trifle too strongly but lots of North players do. So do some Easts, Wests and Souths.

It will be noted that the slam would be a laydown if declarer happened to hold three spades and two diamonds since a spade ruff would be the twelfth trick. It will also be noted that a trump lead would have beaten the hand but West opened the four of diamonds.

George Cardenas of New York played low from dummy. Maybe West was leading from a combination that included the ten spot in which case the lead would have given him the hand but no such pleasant thing happened.

Nevertheless, George did bring home the bacon. He won the trick, led a club to dummy's ace, ruffed a club, led a low heart and

OH, MY ACHING BACK

Now you can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that often cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on, with over-exertion or stress and strain, you want relief—want it fast! Another disturbance may be mild bladder irritation following wrong food and drink—often acting up a restless uncomfortable feeling.

Doan's Pills work fast in 3 separate ways: 1. by speedy pain-relieving action to ease torment of nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains, 2. by soothing effect on bladder irritation, 3. by mild diuretic action tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years. New, large size saves money. Get Doan's Pills today!
